A meal with many names...

As we begin our new series "Meals with Jesus", let's pause to think about what's possibly one of the most famous meals in Scripture. The simple but sacred meal that we call the Lord's Supper.

Many people simply call this meal the Lord's Supper (1 Corinthians 11:20). We do this because Jesus, our Lord, gave us this meal. Many followers of Christ also call this meal "communion" because in this celebration they commune with the Lord and with each other, united in love, faith, and hope in Christ and all of God's promises.

Many Christians also call this meal "the Eucharist," which basically means "thanksgiving." When Jesus celebrated this meal with his disciples, he gave thanks to God for it. And ever since then, the church has given thanks to God for providing this meal.

Early Christians had another name for this meal too, calling it the "love feast" or "agape feast" (see Jude 12). In some cases this may have included a larger fellowship meal along with the celebration of the Lord's Supper. Why did they call it this? Because it showed that Jesus loved his followers so much that he was willing to die to defeat sin and death for them. At this meal we have the opportunity to say that we love God too. And as we pass the food and drink to each other, we acknowledge that we love (or are trying to love) the people in our church family too.

Lord, we thank you for this meal by which you not only remind us of your love but also call us to experience your love and share it with others.
We love you too. Amen.

After taking the cup, he gave thanks and said, "Take this and divide it among you. For I tell you I will not drink again from the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God comes." And he took bread, gave thanks and broke it, and gave it to them, saying, "This is my body given for you; do this in remembrance of me."

Luke 22:17-19 (NIV)
