Marked by Love

"Kissed a guilty world in love..." — words from the hymn Here is Love, Vast as the Ocean by William Rees, a song we sang at our Joint Good Friday Service with St. Peter's & St. Leonard's. As we were singing, I had a picture of Jesus bending down and gently kissing each and every one of us.

Later, as part of our response to the word that Will brought, we were invited to dip a palm cross into red molten wax. Each cross came out different — marked with its own unique layer of red. It was simple, but beautiful.

It made me think of those moments when a loving mother or aunt bends down to kiss you — to show they love you, to make things better after a scraped knee or a bumped head. And sometimes, they leave a mark. Now, I'm not suggesting Jesus wears lipstick — but He does come close to us. He meets us where we are, and He leaves His mark on our lives.

Through His death on the cross, He has made things better in the deepest possible way. He has taken away our sin — as it says in Romans 3:23, "for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God."

"Kissed a guilty world in love."

The question is — have we allowed Jesus to come that close?

Have we allowed Him to leave His mark on us?

by Sharon

I have been crucified with Christ and I no longer live, but Christ lives in me. The life I now live in the body, I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me.

Though the fig tree does not bud and there are no grapes on the vines, though the olive crop fails and the fields produce no food, though there are no sheep in the pen and no cattle in the stalls, yet I will rejoice in the Lord, I will be joyful in God my Saviour.
